Exclusive of the recent sales of April 21st, the Alberta Government has taken in over a billion dollars of oil revenue since the Leduc discovery in 1947. Early in April of this year the one billion dollar was taken in by the government as the result of oil and gas discoveries in the province of Alberta since the famous Leduc discovery that sparked the great oil rush of the Fifties.

Drayton Valley had its first Open Bowling Tournament on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week when the Drayton Valley Bowling Association put on the tournament, followed by a banquet on Saturday evening at the Elks Hall. Fifteen out-of-town bowlers took part in the tournament, which was a great success from start to finish.

Officials of the Bowling League who had charge of various functions of the Tournament were Ray Forwick, League President, in charge of the tournament; Marjorie Bales, Elmer Woods, Bill Harper, and Bill Alsworth, who were in charge of the banquet. The Bowling club extends thanks to these members and to Master of Ceremonies Bob Simons for the part they played in helping the tournament toward success.

After the Tournament was over some 230 guests sat down to a very excellent meal, catered (cont. page 10, col. 1)

The Palmist likened a house-full of children to a quiver filled with arrows. (Psa. 127:3): "As arrows, . . . are children. . . . Happy is the man who hath a quiver full of them. . . ."

Fourteen fine, husky and healthy children, seven boys and seven girls, fill the Ernie Combs home at Rocky Rapids to near-overflowing, when they all gather together, with the in-laws and the grandchildren.

Their names are all given under the picture at the bottom of this page.

Audrey is married, (to the former Laura Cherrington), they have four children; next eldest, Twyla, is married (to Al Getzinger) and they have two children. Third eldest is Lyle, (married to Lona Dent) one child. Fourth child is Merna, married to Lloyd Tattersall, with two children. Most of the children were born at home, with the aid of a mid-wife; they are all unusually healthy.

Mr. Combs was raised in Rocky Rapids, his parents coming to the district many years ago. They ran a store and the post-office in Rocky Rapids for a number of years.

Mrs. Combs was born in Ennawille. Her mother was a nurse there for a long time, nursing many from all sections of the district.

THE BIG DECISION

a public interest talk by

B.F. Goodrich Canada Limited

The basic facts of Canada's economic advance were expounded six months ago by Mr. Yohe in a speech at Stratford, Ontario, entitled "What are the Facts?". The second talk in this two part series, "The Big Decision", suggests a positive concept for all Canadians.

The widespread public interest in Mr. Yohe's views on the subject of Canadianism is illustrated by many editorials from the daily papers of the country commending the article very highly.

Speeches on occasions such as this can be, and often are, platitudinous. My subject: "The Big Decision" sounds as if mine may be. But if it were possible to leave one thought in your minds here today, as a result of our being together, it would be this:

"Nothing distinguishes a man or any group of people more in skill and performance than the ability to make sound decisions."

Actually, in life itself you and I seldom make decisions which concern us alone. They are nearly always modified by our relationship with someone else or relationships to decisions made prior to the moment at hand. Seldom can we isolate our actions or our plans from what has gone before.

What someone else has done, or failed to do, usually provides the motivation and the need for action on our part.

While I intend to use the word "decision" in this discussion, I doubt if ever there are any hard and fast "decisions". Changing conditions in the atmosphere of business and living tend to make our decisions wavering and subject to constant reappraisal.

Therefore decisions are only "choices" of courses of action, and as such must be constantly reviewed and modified as circumstances dictate.

Unfortunately the word "decision" implies a hard and fast conclusion not subject to revision. Actually this is seldom the case.

Instructions by the coach to punt on the second down when the game was being played in rain and mud would hardly be the right play to call if you had the ball on your opponent's 2 yard line. Who he to the quarter-back who took such instructions literally.

What do we find when we say that the basic philosophy underpinning the political posturing of self-appointed guardians of Canadian Nationalism, and the fear, right or wrong, that Canada is losing its identity in the machination of international finance.

There always is, and should be, a risk factor in decision making. Decisions should not be based on facts. These are evidence from the past. Once the critical factor has been found (and facts would define this factor), the decision to be made would involve changing, moving or removing this factor. It is then that judgment enters into the problem.

What then is a "Big Decision"? All decisions may be big for the officer of one of the executives of a large automobile manufacturer here in Canada. We were discussing the small car and Canadian buying habits. It startled me to hear him say that in the parking lot used by employees there were as many or more automobiles of other Canadian manufacturers and of foreign manufacturers than there were of the kind manufactured by his company. A little later I was leaving just at the end of the shift and I had the opportunity to see what he meant. And there was a amazing percentage of the cars I saw were not those manufactured by my friend's company.

I wonder if those same workers I left to carry fire insurance on their homes, or life and accident insurance on themselves. There are many kinds of insurance you know!

(to be continued next week)

May I ask you for a moment, at least, to brush aside the writer of words on economic theories, the political posturing of self-appointed guardians of Canadian Nationalism, and the fear, right or wrong, that Canada is losing its identity in the machination of international finance.

ing, in the Edmonton Gardens. Cliff will also be on hand for the Oldmen's Rodeo in Drayton Valley, July 29th and 30th. The Drayton Valley Rodeo is sponsored by Drayton Valley Lions Club.

Following is a brief history of rodeo, taken from a News Release.

HISTORY OF RODEO

Rodeo is the last frontier of the once wild-west. It began shortly after Texas came home from the Civil War, to find that their longhorn herds had multiplied unchecked. Southern cattle markets, already depressed by the collapse of the confederacy, were soon glutted. So the Texans turned their herds to the north and to the west, driving them across the plains, first to better markets, then to the western railheads at Abilene and Wichita.

The trail drivers were rough men and independent, who lived in the saddle and slept under the open sky. They had their ponies like centaurs, the cowboy animal and man—becoming one. They drove the sword-armed cattle through drought and dust and blizzard, across some of the wildest country man has possessed.

They knew their cow critter as a butcher knew his knives. They carried guns... to kill coyotes and other range varmints.

But they worked with a rope on a horse. Occasionally they'd hit a wall town, where they blew off on horseback, in that brief moment of history, to keep four generations of fiction writers busy ever since. But down, in the long monogony of their lives, was an unexpected pleasure: a huge of a few days perhaps, in every year.

Between towns they made up their own amusement. And these tough hands created a recreation that was typically tough. The hands of the different cattle outfits, coping together on the trail or at roundup time, but their scant wages on their skill at riding the buck bronchos or roping and breaking the longhorn steers.

It was rough sport for short statures. The prize money... the cowboy's own bet... was held in a hat. The cowboy sport might have flourished briefly only there on the plains, to slip quickly, quietly into the pages of history like the buffalo, the muzzling plains.

Indian and the trail drivers themselves. But the face of the plain was changing. Steel driven were gashing the swells of buffalo grass, laying the ribbons of rail to the west. From the east came bankers and buyers and merchants to build—depots and stockyards and banks and courthouses along the right of way.

This was the era of the torch-light parade, the Fourth of July oration, the town bandstand on the courthouse square. In a generation of proud and bustling burghers who liked their celebration big and wild, the building tomorrow of the western frontier were the busiest, the proudest and the wildest of all.

They went out on the plains and invited the cowboys to bring their contest into the town. At Cheyenne, in 1872, the townsfolk gathered at the settlement edge to watch some Texans try to ride the wild cattle.

At Pecos, Texas, in 1883, they penned the longhorns on the courthouse lawn and roped them on the run down main street. At Prescott, Ariz. five years later they built a grandstand and sold tickets.

In a short generation the wild west settled down. The open range was fenced and posted, the ganglions were hunted down and hung and the front street saloons were closed up by a wave of civic respectability. But throughout the year, the best of the rough riding riders and the toughest hands with a rope, still rode for the money at the contests the townsmen kept alive.

They still do. At Cheyenne, where they call it Frontier Day... at Calgary, where it's a Stampede... at Edmonton where it's a Rodeo of Champions. In 500 communities in the U.S. and Canada the cowboy contest is put on by the townsmen who serve on the committee without pay to keep the frontier spirit alive in a city-wide but the whole town turns out to see.

What draws rational men to this contest, where the rules are staked against the man in favor of the animal? The money, you might say, and this is part of the answer. If he's good he might get rich. The world's champion all around cowboy won $40,000 a year and his rivaling expenses and entry fees cost him only half of that. But he's only average... and every sport has more no-name than champions... he'll win less or $3,000 a year.

The cowboy competes partly from boastfulness, partly on a bet and partly from sheer bravery. He chooses rodeo because he's willing to ride against the odds as long as he can ride in freedom.

The Cowboy's hands nowadays are whizzed down super highways in big trucks by contract haulers. His cattle are calmed by tranquilizers and branded in chutes. He rides the range in a pick-up truck and sums on the television watch Riffman, like everybody else. But in the arena he's still a cowboy. There you'll find him still, a sound horse under him, a stout rope in his hand. He's still a cowboy, still a rough hand riding the last frontier.

A boy applying for a job at a butcher shop asked: "What's the pay?" "Five dollars a week. Can you drive a chicken?" "Not on five dollars a week!"

"Time to Live"

by Rev. Albion Wright, of the Drayton Valley United Church.

In the small country school I attended there were two Latin words written on the glass door enclosing the pendulum of the clock. The curious and every child motivated him to ask the teacher what the words meant. The two words were "tempus fugit". These words mean "time flies". My imagination often takes me back to that clock with its pendulum swinging to and fro and to the two words which state one of the most important realities of life—"tempus fugit".

When we are young time may seem to move very slowly, particularly, for the child who looks forward to some event that holds great promise of excitement in the future. As we grow older we become more and more aware of the truth of the message on the clock. A few moments of reflection can remind us of what a fascinating phenomena time itself is. We might, for example, divide time into three parts: the past, the present and the future. The present is but a fleeting moment for while I am thinking of this moment as the present it has already become part of the past and I am now moving through that moment which was so recently a part of the future. These thoughts may give us a clue as to how we may make the best use of time.

The time that is of the greatest worth to us is the time that lies in the future. Thus it appears that the present is interesting primarily as a time of planning. We have all seen buildings that were built with a plan and build which were built without a plan. Buildings that are built without a plan are usually ugly and awkward. They are of little use for no one considered the use to which they were to be put. Most buildings that are planned are pleasing to look at and are useful to the owners or to those using the building.

Many planned buildings are recognized as things of beauty as well as utility.

Most buildings are erected within a certain period of time. In a like manner our lives extend over a given period of time...

We do not know how long that period of time will extend here on earth but we do know that "tempus fugit". Should we not give more attention than we do at present to our plans for the future? Each of us receives an equal portion of time each day. We all have the same amount of time to spend with our children, at work, at play and at worship. If a man spends all of his time at work it is not necessarily because he has to work long hours in order to earn a living. It may be because he would rather be at work than at home. The opposite is often true as well. God has given each of us an equal portion of time to divide among our various needs and interests. Those things that a man considers most important in his life will have top priority upon his time. This does not mean that the most important things require the largest portion of time. The most important things may require the smallest portion but they must have top priority in their modest demands!

If you feel dissatisfied with your life you may find that you are not making the best use of your portion of time. If this is the case why not use the present and the past to prepare for the future? Determine some goals that you wish to achieve both in the near future and in the distant future. A hockey player cannot score unless he knows where the goal is. Once you have defined your goals plan how you may score. New goals will continually be set in the future. Each day will thus be met with anticipation as it brings you nearer to the achievement of your aims and objectives.

The Christian believes that God has a plan for his life. He endeavors to find what God has set for him and he then pours his time in such a way as to reach these goals. The Christian knows that time flies but he recognizes that as time flies it moves him swiftly and surely to the fulfillment of God's purpose in his life.

REPORT FROM LEGISLATURE

By Mrs. C. R. Wood,
M.L.A.

On Monday April 18th the First Session of the Fourteenth Legislature, which opened on February 11th, was prorogued at 4:07 p.m.

The afternoon Session opened with the Order Paper showing that one Bill had to have second reading, 27 Bills, third reading and 16 Bills to have Clause by Clause study. All was done with dispatch and at 4:00 p.m. His Honor Lieutenant Governor J. P. Page extended the Assembly to give Assent to 126 of the 128 Bills presented. The Industrial Tax Bill and the Pipeline and Powerline Bill died on the Order Paper.

The closing speech of His Honor was, "Mr. Speaker, Members of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta—" In bringing to a conclusion this First Session of the Fourteenth Legislative Assembly, I desire to express my appreciation of the earnest manner in which you have applied yourselves to your public duties.

"A number of important measures have been submitted to your attention by my Government. I note with satisfaction the careful consideration you have given to all these measures, and your interest in promoting the welfare of our Province.

"You may be assured that the supplies you have voted for the needs of my administration for the fiscal year ending the Thirty-first day of March, 1961, will be used with wise economy. I thank you for your liberality in this regard and in discharging you from further residence, would assure you of my good wishes for the health and welfare of you all."

Before the Session opened many predicted it would be a very short Session because of the overwhelming number of members to the Government and the few Members on the Opposition. Quite contrary to that belief, it was the busiest and the longest Session since the Social Credit Government came into office in 1953.

Early in the Session, "Watch-dog Committees" were set up composed of Social Credit Members. These Committees gave careful consideration to every piece of legislation and the Members have done a thorough job. A goodly share of the debates that took place throughout the Session was engendered by these Committee Members as a means of ensuring that nothing would escape the attention of the Public as well as the Members of the House.

The thorough and business-like way in which the Members gave close scrutiny to all legislation indicates that they are determined to prove that no matter how non-ideal the results of a Democratic election may be, the Public Interest can be safeguarded by faithful representation.

In closing my Report from the Legislature, I wish to express "Thanks" to the Editor for the courtesy extended to me in keeping our readers informed of the highlights of the Legislature.

Letter To the Editor:-

This is to all the Parents in Drayton Valley: Would you please tell your children not to play around straw stacks, hay racks and grainaries on the farms, when they are out playing in the country side. Point out to them the danger of fire as the slightest flick of a cigarette ash can set these on fire.

Fire destroyed a straw stack on Neil Johnson's farm on Tuesday evening. Some boys were seen playing there shortly before the fire started. Quick action by Oscar Johnson who farms the place, saved the grainary.

which had grain in it, and a shed with a binder in it. He had help from a Model Oil employee, and a neighbor farmer. We farmers depend on the straw, grain and hay which we grow to feed our livestock, to sell, to make our living, and if these are destroyed by fire, there goes our income.

I am sure all you parents will co-operate.

Thanking you,
Mrs. Neil Johnson.

HIGHWAYS

Gordon B. Taylor, Minister of Highways, has announced changes in the method of computing the maximum weights permitted on any vehicle and on any designated highway under a ban restriction. The new regulations permit larger trucks to continue operating with reduced loads.

The present 30,000 pound maximum would be eliminated and the amount permitted during the time a highway is banned will be based on two factors—a percentage of the loading calculated on the maximum weight of the vehicle as shown on the registration certificate; and, a percentage of the maximum permitted when there are no bans.

The lesser amount resulting from the two calculations will be the maximum load permitted on any vehicle on any banned highway.

Under the new ruling a 5-axis vehicle licensed to carry a maximum load of 72,000 pounds on a highway on which the maximum load permitted is 62,000 pounds when there is no ban would be allowed to carry 51,000 pounds under a 50 per cent loading, or 46,500 pounds under a 75 per cent loading.

GUN CLUB INDOOR RIFLE RANGE

Drayton Valley was the recipient of a new indoor rifle range recently when the Drayton Valley Gun Club completed their indoor range in the Elks Hall, a picture of which is shown here.

The indoor range is the culmination of two years effort on the part of the Gun Club to get approval through the Provincial Attorney General's Department. When the indoor range was finally approved by the Provincial Government the Gun Club then set about constructing the specially built range, which was then inspected and approved by the local police.

The range is a standard indoor rifle range, of 45' shooting distance. It was built to the specifications of the Dominion Marksmen. It will be open only to members and will be under supervision of the Gun Club instructors.

The Gun Club plan to hold a meeting in Elks Hall at 8:00 p.m. Monday, May 2nd., for the purpose of signing up new members for the Rifle Ranges and to complete, eventually, with Dominion Marksmen clubs in this area. A special invitation is extended by the Gun Club to all teen-agers and their parents to attend this meeting.

Should anyone not be able to attend the meeting on Monday night they may contact Earl Thompson at 540 for further particulars.

Fees for all under the age of 16 years will be $1.00; for those over 16 the fees will be $10.00 per year. This will entitle the member to the use of both the indoor and outdoor range.

57 HIGHWAY TO BE HANDTOPPED

Announcement was made recently by the Highways Department that bids would be let early in May for the placing of the stabilized gravel course from the end of the black-topping at Moon Lake to Drayton Valley.

The stabilized gravel course will be preliminary to black-topping. The Highways program calls for finishing No. 57 Highway to Drayton Valley with the possibility that it may also be taken on east as far as the bridge this year.

Another recent announcement was to the effect that a Wayside Camp, comprising about seven acres, will be put in by the government along Highway 57, 1/2 mile north of Drayton Valley on Crown owned land. The park will be located where the Forest Ranger cabin is, on the west side of the road.

First plans had been to locate the wayside camp at the triangle where the road into Drayton Valley cuts off from 57, as it was thought by the Highway Department that it was Crown land, but it was found to be privately owned, so the department selected the site where the Little Ranger cabin is.

The ban on Highway No. 2 from Edmonton to Calgary was lifted on Wednesday morning. So far there has been no ban placed on No. 57 Highway. No. 16 highway under 796 km from Carleton Place to Richelieu, west of Edmonton, L.D.'s 77 and 78 are still banned.

Sib Thome, of Mobil Oil was recently transferred from the city of Edmonton to the city of Drayton Valley.

A recent visitor in Drayton Valley was Mrs. Margaret Chisholm who was visiting her parents on their farm west of Violet Grove. Mrs. Chisholm's husband, Bill, was with Jones and Laughlin in Drayton Valley for a good spell. He was transferred from here to Edmonton and then down to Calgary, the Convention, where oil money flows like watered milk.

Though we haven't yet seen it circulating, reports indicate that Stan Jevne of Mobil Oil has invented some sort of a vehicle that travels over water but still is not a boat.

C.J.C.A. AT LOCAL STORE

Under the sponsorship of the Solo Stores Organization, C.J.C.A. Radio Station sent their roving reporter, Bill Lee out to Emile's Supermarket in Drayton Valley to interview the proprietors and some of their customers last Friday, April 29th. The next day the tape-recorded interviews were played back over C.J.C.A. and proved to be very interesting.

Apparently the station has quite a wide listener coverage in this area, as quite a number of people have said that they heard the program which was interspersed with musical and other broadcasts from tan in the morning until about two in the afternoon. Most of those who had heard the program had no advance notice of the local interest and just happened to be listening to C.J.C.A. during those hours.

MEAT MARKET CHANGES HANDS

Drayton Valley Meat Market changed hands recently when Carl Armbruster sold out his interest to Larry Johnson.

Mr. Johnson was raised in Kelliber, Saskatchewan. He worked in Saskatoon and Punnichay, Saskatchewan before going to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, as shop foreman for Burns Co. He was in Whitehorse for five years. They had been residing in Waterous, Saskatchewan, for a while before coming to Drayton Valley.

His wife, Beverly, was raised in Kelliber, also. They have a daughter Michelle, 3 years old. Both quite young, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson should fit well into this area, which is made up largely of young married folks. Mr. Johnson is an enthusiastic sportsman, and for that reason he liked the North country very much.

LEGION GROUP GOES TO MERCOAL

A cavalcade of pickups went from Drayton Valley recently to Mercoal. The group consisted of Drayton Valley members of the Canadian Legion and they were going to Mercoal to pick up a large amount of furniture which was given to the local Legion group by the Mercoal Legion.

Since the mines at Mercoal were shut down a couple of years ago, and with almost everyone moving away to find jobs elsewhere (cont. page 10, col. 1)

Mr. John Ewanio

John Ewanio, owner of Devon Jewelry, in Drayton Valley, was born in Chicago. His parents had emigrated from the Ukraine to Chicago in 1906. In 1911, they moved to Drayton, Alberta to homestead. The elder Ewanio's remained in the Drayton district, where Mr. Ewanio, Sr. passed away in 1959. John has three sisters, all of whom are married and reside in Canada.

Mr. Ewanio took his elementary schooling in Drayton and his High School education in Ver-million. In 1926 he moved to Chicago, where he took up the Watch-Making trade with Elgin Watch-Makers School.

In 1930 he returned to Drayton and opened up a jewelry and watch repair shop there, which he operated until 1956 when he went to the town of Devon. While in Drayton, Mr. Ewanio was a member of the Drayton Council, and was the Mayor of Drayton for two years.

He remained in Devon until 1955, when he moved to Drayton Valley where he established another jewelry and watch repair shop, keeping the same name as the one he had used in Devon, Devon Jewelry. In 1958, in partnership with Len Barnard of Drayton Valley Dry Cleaners, they bought the Drumstick Restaurant building which has since been remodelled into a very fine business structure.

Coming to Drayton Valley he became active in community and civic affairs. He had been a member of the Lions Club in Devon and helped to organize the Lions Club in Drayton Valley. He is an active member of the Elbo Lodge here, and an enthusiastic curler. He is a member of the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Greek Orthodox Church.

Mr. Ewanio stated that the only time he had not operated his own business was for three years while he was in Chicago when he worked for Swift & Co. (cont. page 11, col. 1)
